about project pajama

Kim Bruno and Giselle Shardlow founded Project Pajama after Kim learned that a high school classmate of hers, who is now a teacher in Lowell, needed help collecting pajamas for her students. Their aim is to provide 200 pairs of children's pajamas to families in need. They hope to provide warmth and comfort to ensure a better night's sleep that will lead to a more healthy and productive life.

support project pajama

Kim and Giselle are collecting brand-new, unwrapped girls and boys pajamas, sizes 6 to 16, from November 7 through December 9. Please place donations of new pajamas in the holiday wrapped boxes outside of their homes. May we all be a bit warmer this season—whether it is because of a new pair of pajamas or because of doing a good deed.
